

Interessions

During the spring and winter interessions, the residence halls will be closed, and students are expected to leave campus. The halls will be locked and secured, and students will not be allowed to remain in, or return to, their room until the official reopening time. Notices will be posted in advance to let students know the dates and times.

Students can leave their belongings in their room during spring and winter interession periods, but students are encouraged to take home all items of value. CIA cannot be responsible for loss or damage.

While all students are expected to leave for spring interession, residents can request interession housing between the spring and summer semesters.

During summer interessions, students are required to fully vacate their rooms and remove all personal belongings.

Students are instructed to do the following before leaving for any interession:

1. Close and lock windows
2. In New York only, leave heater/air conditioner on low; in summer, leave the dehumidifier on, if the room is equipped with one
3. Unplug electrical appliances and defrost refrigerators
4. Clean room and remove trash and recycling
5. Turn off all lights
6. Report any leaking faucets or toilets
7. Take valuables
8. Lock the door
9. Follow any other instructions from Residence Life staff

Once students have left for interession, Residence Life staff members will inspect their rooms. Failure to complete the items listed above may result in the assessment of non-appealable fines beginning at $50 and up to $250.

Interession Housing

CIA students completely vacate their rooms following the summer term. For the Spring Interession, students may request housing for a fee. In most cases, students who request interession housing will remain in their current room for the duration of the interession. Please note, Residence Life reserves the right to alter the location of interession housing as deemed necessary by such factors as, but not limited to, number of requests for housing, scheduled maintenance to campus buildings, or utility outages.

To qualify for interession housing, a student must:

- Be registered for classes following the interession
- Be in a position where leaving campus would be unrealistic due to distance from campus
- Be in good disciplinary standing
- Have all financial obligations to the CIA satisfied or a plan in place through SFRS

Requests for interession housing can be submitted via the Interession Housing Request form that is made available to students approximately six weeks prior to interession.

If requests for intersession housing are granted, the student's current housing contract and all requirements within will be extended to cover the length of the intersession. At the New York campus, if dining facilities remain open a student may be expected to purchase gold points to dine on campus for the duration of the intersession, as no meal plan will be offered. At the California campus, if dining facilities remain open a student will be billed a prorated board fee during the intersession period. If a student is found in violation of the Student Code of Conduct during their intersession stay, they may be asked to leave campus immediately without refund for the cost of intersession housing.
