

HMFB-110 : Foundations of Hospitality Management

(Formerly know as Introduction to Food and Beverage Management.) Students will learn about preparing themselves as professionals with the attitudes and self-preparations for a rewarding career. They will prepare communications for a successful employment search, engage in active practice interviews, learn how to conduct themselves at a career fair and in telephone interviews, and be able to manage the employment search process. Students will learn about the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to flourish as a food and beverage manager, and food and beverage career options will be explored within the context of the hospitality industry.

Credits 3